demko was 39 when she was diagnosed with a very aggressive breast cancer, and she's convinced that all the milk she drank played a part. Additionally, there is also L-arginine as an ingredient, which is commonly found in male enhancement products. Sure, most of the language is abstract, but the latest essays and letters continue to argue for a revolution against the current technological system, even if they don't give detailed instructions. Also, do add them to your reading list, if you plan to read them in near future.